OF RAINBOW DIVISION

SECOND LIEUT. J. W. BARNETT ON FRENCH FRONT WRITES TO HIS MOTHER

Mrs. M. N. Barnett, 125 South Kenwood street has received an interesting letter from her son, 2nd. Lieut. J. W. Barnett, the first that has reached her since May. It is dated June 26, from somewhere in France and reads:

Dearest Mother:—Haven't heard from you for some time. I have been up at the front and just at present am behind the lines but expect to go up again soon. Lots of excitement and everything but I like it better than being here. The spirit of the Americans is wonderful and they have been doing great work against the Boches lately.

I was commissioned just after coming back from the trenches. I am enclosing a snap shot taken about a week ago. You will notice I am pretty sunburned but I guess you are used to seeing me look that way after coming in from surveying jobs. I like it very much here; the country is full of interesting places and beautiful scenery and the French treat us fine. If engineering work is good I think I'll stay over here after the war if Fritz don't nail me. I speak French like a native now, all the slang, etc. It comes quite handy.

Came through Paris on my way back from the front and stayed a few days. Paris is rightly named the dream city. It is the most wonderful place I have ever seen. Called on Elizabeth Frazer and spent the day sightseeing. We had dinner together and talked over old times at Berkeley.

I hope you are well, Mother. I'll write as often as I can. Don't worry about me. I'm lucky and you can see by my photo that I am not ailing any. I never felt better in my life. You can barely see on my left sleeve the gold six months foreign service stripe. Just think, I have been in France eight months.

Lovingly,
JOE

2nd Lieut. J. W. Barnett, 116 Eng.
A. P. O. 733, A. E. F.

Elizabeth Frazer's name, mentioned in this letter will be familiar to many of our readers as she is well known as a magazine writer of war articles and fiction. Miss Frazer was a member of Mrs. Barnett's family during her ten years' residence in Berkeley while her children were in college. Miss Frazer like Lieut. Barnett is a graduate of the University of California. Her home is in Los Angeles. She was graduated from a literary course and went directly to New York and from there abroad after the outbreak of the war.

Lieut. Barnett enlisted the latter part of August, 1917 and sailed for France the 18th of the following October. He is in the Rainbow division.

Mrs. Barnett has spent most of her time since her son left with her daughter, Mrs. Sawyer, in Mendocino county. She returned the first of July to her own home which she has now rented and after a visit to the Santa Monica beach will join her brother near Newhall.

CHRISTIAN FRATERNITY

ONE MORE SACRIFICE NEEDED TO PROVE OUR PATRIOTISM

During war there is no patriotism without sacrifice; sacrifice of food, clothing, home comforts and amusement; sacrifice of business, itself, on which all these other things depend.

But to win this war, and help make the world fit to live in, all patriots have directly or indirectly pledged fortune, life and sacred honor. Yet that is not enough.

"Why, what more could there be?"

Something that will be esteemed the paramount sacrifice by the loyal hearts who will cheerfully do that also, when the need is fully realized.

"Thrice armed is he who hath his quarrel just"—only when backed up by every possible moral and physical auxiliary for true thinking and brave doing. God helps them best who help themselves.

Our Nation is learning new estimates of values; new mutual relations of receiving and giving; new needs, ways and means for community effort—with more vital results therefrom; all leading to our re-born consciousness of the basic fact that our Nation does not glory in material things except as they condition development of higher freedom of the soul to promote betterment of mankind in spiritual growth.

But the first duty and privilege confronting us is to win this war, compelling a finished peace by the unconditional surrender of Might-and-

TRUSTEES' MEETING

P. E. ASKS PERMISSION TO BUILD WAITING ROOM AT EAST GLENDALE

The Board of Trustees assembled at 8:20 p. m. August 8, 1918. All members present at roll call.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and, on motion, approved.

A communication was read from J. McMillan, General Manager of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, stating that in accordance with the request made by the President of the Board of Trustees, the company proposed to erect a small building for the accommodation of passengers on the parkway at the northeast corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, and requesting permission for the erection of the same, which on motion of Trustee Henry, was granted.

On motion, it was ordered that bids for the furnishing of supplies and furniture for the fire house be opened at this time.

On motion of Trustee Henry, all bids were referred to the City Manager to examine and bring in a report at the next regular meeting.

A communication was read from the City Manager making a detailed report as to the Magnolia avenue playground, which was, on motion, referred to the Public Works Committee, consisting of Trustees Henry, Muhleman and Jackson.

The City Clerk reported that the receipt of the ordinance and transcript of proceedings in connection with the annexation of the Kenilworth District to the City of Glendale had been acknowledged by the Secretary of the State, under date of August 7, 1918.

Reports of the Building Inspector and Treasurer for the month of July were presented to the Board.

The City Manager reported that the Street Department is making repairs on Broadway west of Central avenue; that the lot cleaning work is about completed.

A motion of Trustee Muhleman was adopted that when the Board adjourns it be to meet August 9, 1918, at ten o'clock a. m.

The City Attorney reported the receipt of a letter from the Capital Issues Committee in Washington in reply to the application of the City of Glendale for permission to issue bonds to the extent of approximately $150,000 for the acquisition of municipal gas plant, communication stating that the application had been forwarded to the sub-committee at San Francisco.

The City Attorney stated that in his opinion it would be impossible to secure the voters' approval of this bond issue under the present war conditions, and requested instructions from the Board as to whether the application made to the Railroad Commission should be allowed to come to a hearing or be deferred for the present.

Trustee Henry offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"That owing to the condition of the war situation and the likelihood of the Capital Issues Committee refusing to authorize the issuance of the bonds at this time, and the fact that it would now be practically impossible to buy material for the extension of the system should the bonds be voted, that further action in connection with this matter be deferred until there is a change in present conditions and regulations, and that the Railroad Commission be requested to continue the matter of fixing the valuation of the gas system until conditions will justify further action.

The City Engineer reported having had printed 3800 postal cards, which it is his intention to send to property owners and residents of the City of Glendale, informing them as to the new street numbers.

The Manager of the Public Service Department reported that orders had been received from the Fuel Administration at Washington that electricity shall not be furnished for lights used for display advertising purposes.

He presented a proposed contract with the power company running for one month to supply electric power to the pumping plant on San Fernando road. On motion of Trustee Jackson, the contract was approved and the proper officials of the city authorized to sign the same.

BIG BRITISH DRIVE IN FLANDERS

BEGAN THIS MORNING—FOURTEEN THOUSAND PRISONERS TAKEN IN PICARDY OFFENSIVE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, August 9.—The War Office announced today that the British started a new drive in Flanders this morning and already had captured several villages including Locon, Lecornet, Malo, Lesart and several of lesser importance .

At the same time the Franco-British drive in Picardy was progressing vigorously despite more stubborn German resistance.

The statements said prisoners counted up to this morning from the Picardy battle totalled 14,000 while the number of guns and other booty had not yet been estimated.

At 1:30 this afternoon reports showed the British cavalry were near Chaulnes Junction, a mile south of the important city of Chaulnes, representing a 4-mile advance in Picardy over night and a total advance of ten miles since the drive started.

At 2 o'clock reports from the battle field indicated that British patrols had passed beyond Foucacourt, 4 miles northwest of Chaulnes.

LENINE DECLARES STATE OF WAR

AMERICAN CONSUL POOLE AT MOSCOW NOTIFIES DEPARTMENT OF BOLSHEVIKI DECLARATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, August 9.—The State Department received confirmation today of the declaration of a state of war between the Bolsheviki in Russia and the allies.

American Consul Poole at Moscow notified the State Department that Premier Lenine had told a meeting of Soviet that a state of war existed.

The allied council asked the foreign minister to explain and he told them that Lenine implied a state of defense rather than a state of offensive war.

He said Russia wanted to continue relations with the allies on a basis similar to her relations with Germany.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ON THE BRITISH FRONT, August 9.—The prisoners taken by the British in the Picardy drive included many high officials. Many were brought in clad only in pajamas, showing how completely they were surprised.

The Paris-Amiens railway is now out of range of the German guns while the second Paris-Amiens road is in allied hands with the exception of Montdidier.

Allied casualties were exceedingly light. One army corps lost only two officers and forty men.

OF TIMELY INTEREST

"WHAT EVERY AMERICAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE WAR"

The above is the title of a book by Montaville Flowers just off the press of George H. Doran Co., New York. A sub-title is "A Symposium of the Leaders in all branches of War Activities."

The volume is strictly what it purports to be, consisting of statements of government officials and other high authorities of the methods employed and the work performed in the special line in which speakers are engaged, presented in a style of remarkable clearness and unusual interest. Any one of the chapters selected at random will be found to contain much that is unknown to the average citizen however well informed he may be and will be found as interesting as are any of the remarkable stories of achievement in the field of war activity, which the last year has furnished.

The stories of Belgium, Serbia, France and Great Britain are told by the diplomatic representatives of these countries. The case of the United States is presented by Senator Owen, Congressman Fess and Louis Brownlow.

The case of American labor and its contribution to the winning of the war is set forth by Mr. Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and L. F. Post.

The food problem and its solution is presented by Mr. Hoover, A. E. Taylor and H. A. Emerson.

Finance is represented by assistant secretary J. H. Moyle, problems and duties of industry by secretary Redfield, education and commissioners by P. P. Claxton, G. A. Strayer and Mrs. C. C. Bradford.

A speech by George Creel of the Publicity department of the government is particularly illuminating. He corrects many misapprehensions as to the function of his department and its achievements. For instance in referring to the criticism of our air plane production, he states that "Every air plane in the air must have forty-seven men on the ground to take care of it."

The story of Serbia contains this statement, "Serbia surrendered almost everything (to Austria's demand) but of no avail, Germany and Austria wanted war—Serbia barred the way to Bagdad and had to be crushed."

The story of Belgium may also be epitomized in the following extract from the speech of her representative, "Germany offered us a shameful bargain—she offered to spare our country and indemnify us if we would let her pass through to accomplish her crime against our neighbor, France. She wished to make us an accomplice in her crime and gave us twelve hours in which to make up our minds; that was 11 hours 59 minutes too much. We spurned the base offer.

"France in the World War" by Andrew Tardieu is a wonderful story of the splendid accomplishments of the French people. The average subscription of her people in money amounts to between $200 and $300 per capita. One million, three hundred thousand of her soldiers have died and another million is invalided for life, maimed or prisoners, and these figures are up to last February only.

In Lord Redding's statement of the case for Great Britain is found this statement, "We were not bound by any alliance to enter this war. We said to Germany, 'You do this thing at your peril' (invade Belgium) England is in." He speaks of England's good fortune in having her fleet ready and of its splendid achievements; it has convoyed thirteen million men across the water and only 3500 have been lost, of which 500 were on hospital ships. Here again it is to be remembered that the figures are only up to February last.

John Barrett tells the interesting story of the achievements of the Pan-American union and its purpose, making for that body the claim that in the less than ten years of its existence it has averted at least six wars among its members in South America.

The spirit of Canada and the United States is treated by a Canadian woman, Mrs. Peter D. Crerar, who has lost two of her three sons in the war, in a very touching manner.

There are valuable contributions on the Red Cross, the Four Minute Men, the Province of Journalism and a contribution of peculiar interest by J. B. W. Gardiner, military expert of the New York Times on "Germany's Preparation for the next war."

The above sets forth in brief something of the nature of the volume and its timely interest.

RAPID TRAVELING

TWENTY-FOUR DAYS FROM SAN PEDRO TO PARIS IS GOOD RECORD

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 205 Lomita avenue have received this week four interesting letters from their son Howard, now with the colors in France. Here are extracts:

Somewhere in France,
June 23, 1918.

Dear Folks:

Well, at last I'm over here, having arrived at a French port just 20 days after leaving San Pedro. Had a most delightful trip both across the United States and across the ocean. We experienced excellent weather most of the time and were surely kept on the move from the time we left San Pedro until our arrival here. To be exact, it took us just twenty-four days to come from Fort Mac-Arthur to Paris—a little too fast for me, for I would have liked to have spent a few days in New York. However, it's all over now and I am just as well off. Our trip across the U. S. was by far the most pleasant part of our journey and every one of us enjoyed it all the way from coast to coast. Stopped twice a day for an hour's exercise, and the people in every town always treated us royally—giving us candy, cookies, ice cream, magazines, etc. One particular feature that struck me quite noticeably was the fact that the people of the East were far more patriotic than those of the West—the farther east we got the more people greeted us, more flags were flying, and everything in general tended more or less to give one the impression that the country was at war. As we pulled out from many

COMMON SENSE IN BUSINESS

If there was ever a time when it was necessary to use cool headed judgment in business it is now. Many kinds of business are being entirely revolutionized on account of the war. There is a chance for fortunes to be lost and the individuals who must bear the loss can not help themselves. Road contractors who have large sums of money invested in machinery and horses are meeting with marked losses in many instances because they cannot get contracts under present conditions.

Orders come from the heads of departments of the government that all building of roads that do not directly contribute toward winning the war shall be discontinued, so the road contractor is in bad luck unless he can get government work to do at cantonments and other places where roads and concrete work are being built. Hundreds of men have been doing honest work that is now not considered necessary for the prosecution of the war. These men have made pledges to buy liberty bonds, war savings stamps and now they are finding it impossible to keep these pledges on account of a decrease of receipts in business.

If business is to keep its normal condition and thereby permit men and women to fulfill pledges made to war activities it is necessary for common business sense to be used. It is the desire of everybody to do all possible to help with war activities, and everybody can help a little more if business so far as possible is allowed to remain in normal condition. Good patriotic business judgment should govern at this time.

BOLD AND UNPATRIOTIC ACT

Charles H. Randall, candidate for re-election from the ninth Congressional district did a very unpatriotic act a few days ago when he caused a congestion of the mails in his district by requiring to have distributed through the postoffices at the government's expense a campaign circular. Never has the writer's attention been called to such a brazen act on the part of any public official. Such a use of the United States mails deserves an investigation and without doubt such an investigation will be made.

In the business section of some parts of Glendale only one delivery of mail was made on the day the Randall literature was distributed and the reason given for not making the second delivery was that Randall's mail caused the delay.

Citizens of Glendale who have heretofore been friendly to Mr. Randall's re-election are unwilling to sanction the advantage he took of using the United States mails for the free distribution of his political literature.

FOCH OR "THINKING BAYONETS

Quite a number of war correspondents are giving Gen. Foch credit for planing the great counter drive that has thrown the Germans back across the Aisne river and made ultimate allied victory certain. While giving due meed of praise to Gen. Foch's transcendant abilities as strategist and planner, a close study of the events of the past three weeks convinces me that most of the credit for the astounding victory should be given to "thinking bayonets" as Gen. Charles King christened the American private soldier. One of the outstanding examples of the American soldier's ability to think for himself was given at the battle of Missionary Ridge just east of Chattanooga, Tenn. Grant's army, beleagured for weeks in Chattanooga by Bragg's forces and nearly starved, was at last rescued by Sherman's advance from Knoxville. Fed up and refreshed the Union army prepared for a great offensive. Sherman attacked at Tunnel hill and Thomas' command moved forward from Orchard Knob and captured the confederate rifle pits at the foot of Missionary Ridge. There they were to wait until Sherman should triumph at Tunnel Hill. But Sherman met a more stubborn resistance than he had counted on and Thomas' soldiers became tired of waiting, so without any orders they began to climb Missionary Ridge, and though it was swept by hundreds of rebel guns and muskets, the attack was a brilliant success. So I believe it was on the Marne. Gen. Foch, cautious and careful as he has proven himself in all emergencies, planned only to check the German onslaught. But when the Sammies met the attack and hurled it back, they couldn't stand still and they wouldn't go back, so, without orders, they pushed ahead, using the Indian fighter's tactics at times. And when the Tommies and the Poilus saw how Sammy pushed ahead constantly, it aroused their enthusiasm to such a degree that it was not in the might of the Boches to hold them.

O. L. KILBORN.

DID NOT BORROW TO BUY BONDS

The Federal Reserve Bulletin says that one of the most encouraging and gratifying features of the Third Liberty Loan is that apparently there has been little use of bank accommodations for the purchase of the bonds. It estimates that probably more than 80 per cent of the bonds are already fully paid for.

The financial statements of the various Federal reserve banks indicate, according to the Bulletin, that not much borrowing from the banks was done by the subscribers to the third loan. They either paid cash or bought on the installment plan.

This eases a great deal the burden of the banks, upon whose shoulders rests the financing of the business and industry of the country.

Former citizens of Iowa who are now residing in Glendale have cause to be proud of the very active part the Iowa soldier boys are taking in war against Germany. The casualty list contains the names of many Iowa boys, which is evidence that these brave fellows are in the front ranks of the fiercest battles.

FRUIT! FRUIT! FRUIT!

Full Steam Ahead on Canning

WHY?

BECAUSE:

1. Canning saves the crops.
2. Canning saves transportation.
3. Canning saves labor.
4. Canning builds up home reserves.
5. We can afford to waste nothing.

SLOW ON SUGAR

WHY?

BECAUSE:

1. German submarines sunk sugar.
2. German submarines sunk sugar boats.
3. Boats have been released to help feed Belgium.
4. Germans have rendered useless sugar beet factories of Northern France.
5. Our own crop of sugar is smaller than anticipated.

Are you a "good provider" Mrs. Housekeeper? Then full steam ahead on canning. Never mind the shortage of sugar. Take care of the fruit now and the future will take care of itself.

SAVE SUGAR IN CANNING

Sugar is not needed as a preservative if fruit is properly sterilized and sealed. By canning we can get along without the use of heavy syrups and thus save sugar.

FRUIT JUICE

Fruit Juices can be bottled without sugar and used as fruit drinks, in jelly desserts, pudding sauce, and ice creams.

RED CROSS GAINS $1000

The United States Food Administration issues the following:

The National Mercantile Co., of Philadelphia, has been ordered to close its branch store at Daisytown, Pa., for a period of 30 days and to suspend all sales of wheat flour for 30 day in all of its sores in Washington County, Pa., for violation of the United States Food Administration regulations. The company has also agreed to contribute $1000 to the Red Cross as a part of its penalty. The order becomes effective July 15.

Violations, which officers of the company admitted, consisted of repeated sales of flour at a figure in advance of the market price, selling excessive quantities of flour and without the required amount of substitutes. The company is said to do a business of about $500,000 a year.

UNIVERSITY PLANNED FOR MOUNT OF OLIVES

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Mount of Olives, near Jerusalem, is to be the site of a university. The institution is to be founded by the Zionist societies of the world. While primarily for Jews, it will be open to students from all nations, Zionist authorities have announced.

Present plans include a school of liberal arts and sciences and a school of medicine. Other branches will be added as the university grows.

The institution will be opened as soon as conditions in the Holy Land permit.

An attempt will be made to use the ancient Hebrew as the classroom language.

INDIAN SQUAWS ORGANIZE TO STUDY FOODS

Indian women on the Indian reservation near Syracuse, N. Y., have organized a study class under the leadership of the county home demonstration agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture. This is the outcome of a demonstration of canning and war cooking given recently by the agent at the reservation. The new organization will study foods and later on the women will receive instruction in sewing.

MENNONITES READY FOR STRATEGIC RETREAT

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—Mennonites, who are conscientious objectors to military service, are going to emigrate in large numbers from the United States to Canada, where they say they will have a better chance. They have purchased a large tract of land 30 miles west of here, for $400,000, and expect to settle 1,500 persons upon it.

MODERN WARFARE FORCES CHANGES

Modern warfare, rather than prejudice, is responsible for a decline in the American habit of chewing tobacco, according to Y. M. C. A. secretaries at the front. The gas mask has turned the trick. As one Southern soldier put it: "With terbacca bitin' inside yer cheek, the ol' gas mask 'tween yer teeth, mustard gas all about yer and no chance ter open yer mouth—war sure is hell!"

ISN'T BASEBALL A BIT DANGEROUS?

An American Y. M. C. A. secretary in London went to Putney to see a cricket game. His uniform attracted attention and he asked about cricket. Then a Britisher asked about baseball. On a page of his notebook the American sketched a diamond and described the game, remarking, "It's a great game. You boys ought to try it out."

"We'd like to," spoke up a rising young cricketer, "but isn't it rather dangerous?"

Comrade T. M. Barrett, who has been attending the annual encampment of the Southern California Veterans association at Huntington Beach, came up Thursday evening to attend to some business, returning Friday morning. He reports this year's programs so far as the finest of any during the twelve years he has attended the encampments. Practically all the tents on the grounds are rented and the houses have been packed.

VISIT NAVAL BASE

About fifteen young people, members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Lutheran church motored to San Pedro Wednesday evening in three automobiles, arriving about 7:30. They visited the naval base and gave a musical and literary entertainment for the soldiers and sailors which seemed much enjoyed by the boys. The battleship Oregon was in port and some of its boys in blue attended the entertainment and were invited to visit Glendale. The program included readings, vocal solos and piano duets. The party returned to Glendale the same night.

A few words as to the origin of the book. Early in the present year, Mr. Flowers, who for some time past has been lecturing on the Chautauqua circuit, conceived the idea of calling an international conference in Washington of the lecturers on the various circuits in the United States and Canada, for the purpose of selecting topics and forming a plan by which their work during the period of the war might harmonize with the work of the government in informing the people of matters of paramount interest in connection with the winning of the war. The convention was in session from April 8 to 13th inclusive and was attended by 192 delegates, representing 89 associations, from 32 states, Canada and Newfoundland.

Mr. Flowers prepared the entire program which was carried through with the utmost success as he planned it. The request he made of the speakers invited to address the conference was, to tell, "What you most desire the American people to know upon the subject of your address" and they confined themselves strictly to the subject assigned to them.

President Wilson in writing to Mr. Flowers thanked him very heartily "for the very real help it (the organization) has given to America in the struggle that is concerned with every fundamental element of national life." and expressing the hope that "you will let no discouragement weaken your activities, and that the people will not fail in the support of the patriotis institution that may be said to be an integral part of the national defense."

The volume now presented to the public contains the addresses delivered before the conference as above stated.

ALBERT WHEELON'S IMPRESSIONS

Miss Aileen Grist is in receipt of a letter from Albert Wheelon chronicling his first impressions of "over there." The letter is dated June 26th but did not reach her until August 7th. He went over at the same time that Howard McGillis and some other Glendale boys sailed who left here the last of May. He says they had a wonderful trip and his description of the country corresponds with other letters which have been published and he tells of the queer little trains and of the odd appearance of the French peasantry in their wooden shoes. After they arrived they stopped at a rest camp for two days and then traveled on for two days and a night, finally reaching a historic fort, very, very old. Miss Grist's sister, Mrs. Pierce, returned from San Diego last Thursday. Her husband and all the men in the 40th Division to which he belongs have left Camp Kearny for an eastern camp. George Grist is still at Fort MacArthur in the Signal Corps.

COACHELLA VALLEY CROPS

Professor Harry Howe returned last Friday from his Coachella Valley ranch, but goes back to it on the 12th. He says he has been very busy setting more dates and between the rows has planted castor beans. He says there is great need of these beans to furnish oil for the use of aviators. He had intended to put in edible beans but changed his mind.

He reports that the marketing of the grape crop of the valley closed about the first of August, that they had a magnificent crop of Thompson Seedless and Malagas, for which they got a fine price. He sent back to friends here grapes that weighed four pounds to a cluster. It is the land par excellence of the date and the grape and has a big future before it in the opinion of Mr. Howe. The Narbone Ranch shipped a fine crop of grapes from vines only three years old.

KNIGHTS HONOR DR. A. W. TEEL

Dr. A. W. Teel of this city, who has enlisted for service in the army medical corps, who has been commissioned as a Captain and will soon leave for camp, also Mrs. Teel, were guests of honor at a three-course banquet and entertainment given Thursday evening by the Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, at Masonic Temple.

The banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated in the national colors with flags and flowers, was well filled with knights and their ladies. The affair opened with the singing of "My Country, 'tis of Thee," with Color Bearer Clem Moore bringing in the flag.

Before and after the banquet patriotic and miscellaneous vocal numbers were given by Miss Ellene Grist, who was accompanied upon the piano by Miss Irene McLaren.

The leading address was made by Rev. J. W. Rushton, an Englishman who has been touring Canada and the United States making patriotic speeches. It was a fine talk and included a vivid description of the battle ground on which the allies are now engaged.

Following this talk Dr. Hogue on behalf of the Commandery presented to Dr. Teel a comfort kit bearing his name, making at the same time a little speech voicing appreciation of his patriotism and bidding him Godspeed. Commander C. L. Peckham then presented him with a khaki-bound Testament, with a brief and appropriate speech, and Ezra Parker bestowed upon him a handsome wrist watch, the gift of business men of Glendale.

The speech made by Mr. Parker in presenting the wrist watch took the form of a letter which he read and of which the following is a transcript:

Glendale, Cal., August 8, 1918.

Dear Captain Teel:

You have heard the call of your Country and feel in your heart a deep sense of duty and a great desire to be "over there" to do what you can to relieve the suffering of our boys when they are injured on the field of battle.

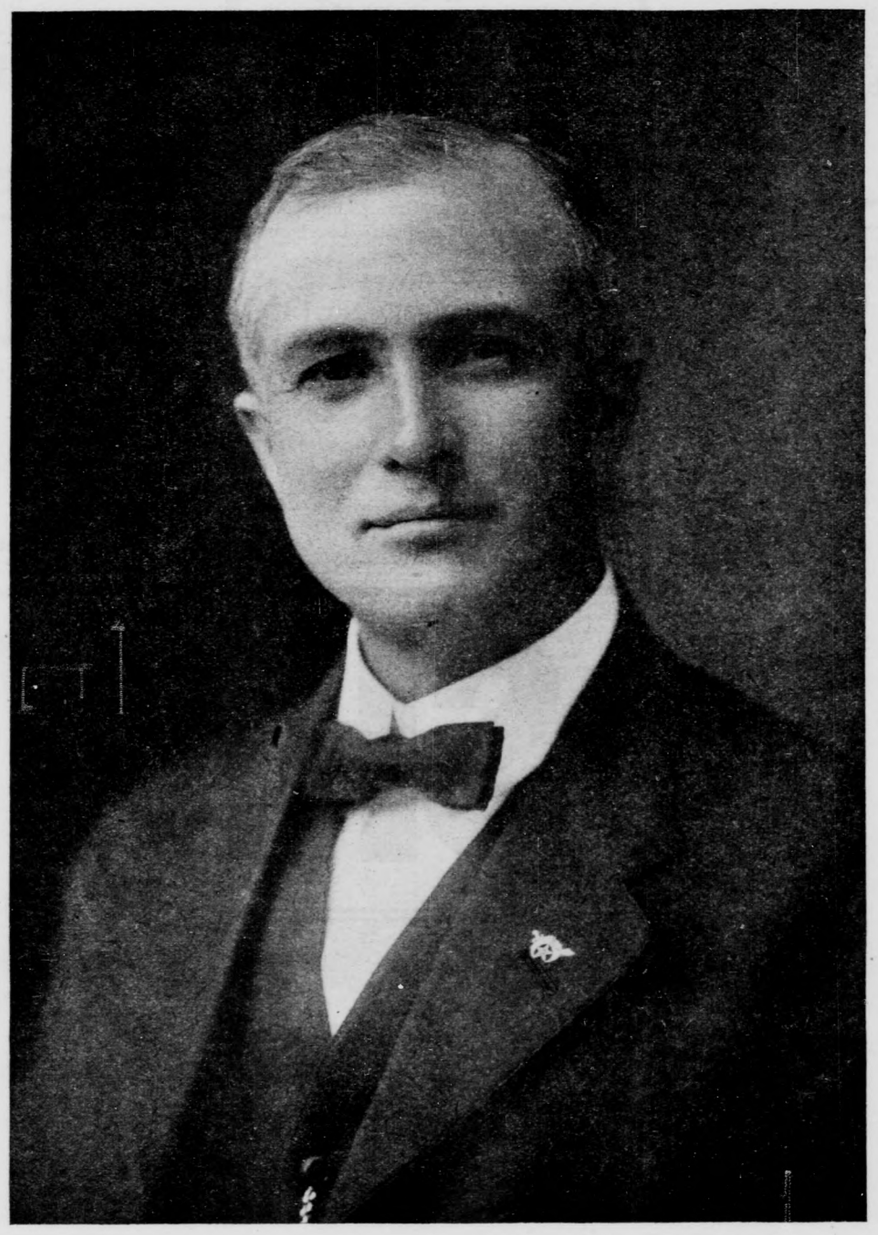
You have done a great good here in Glendale and your friends will miss you sorely, but we know that this is a greater opportunity for you to serve your Country and your fellow man, and so we will send you away with a smile.

So that you will always have before you memories of your friends and that you may feel that we have not forgotten you, we wish you to accept this slight token as a symbol of our friendship and brotherly love. May you keep it with you always and may you bring many a soldier back to health and strength.

Good-bye for a while.

In his brief acknowledgments, Dr. Teel showed that he was very much touched by these evidences of good will on the part of his friends.

The balance of the evening was devoted to a general social good time.



a. w. Teel M. D.

CHRISTIAN FRATERNITY

Wrong to Might-and-Right.

To that end no sacrifice of non-essentials can be too great.

The next sacrifice demanded by the Goddess of Liberty is that we freely cast upon the altar of our beloved Country our sectarian selfishness with the needless prejudices which we admit are not essential to the soul's salvation.

Yes, that gives us pause.

But listen!

There is no reasonable doubt of the fact that thus far we owe our splendid victories over what was considered the greatest army on earth very largely to the magnificent morale—the upright, honorable, manly spirit maintained by our soldiers, the like of which was never known before.

That all-conquering spirit is made possible by the continuous, wise and faithful uplift work of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the regimental pastors, the Red Cross and various other unselfish agencies for promoting and sustaining spiritual hope and cheerfulness with the dauntless courage of practical patriotism expressed in unwavering ambition to win "over the top."

There is imperative need for more of such beneficent agencies. The demand ever exceeds the supply.

There is an ever-echoing cry from Macedonia, "Come over and help us!"

Answering that sacred call, the Christian people of Glendale are straining every nerve as thus far demanded, buying Thrift Stamps, War Stamps and War Bonds; meanwhile doing hundreds of other individual and community deeds to show their devotion to our Country and their love for our heroes "over there."

Now comes the opportunity to do one more thing—one new and glorious thing, worth more than a regiment of fresh volunteers.

It is this. Select one or two of the largest auditoriums in Glendale, and all meet there for all religious public service, keeping the other houses of worship unopened during the war—each front door bearing this super-Christian legend: "Closed during the war; for God and Country."

Christian fraternity, love and good works would flourish as never before. The Christian world would sing the praises of the new and greater Glendale, which could thus send to the front hundreds of loyal workers to fight without guns behind the men behind the guns.

cities it seemed as if thousands and thousands of factory and locomotive whistles were blowing. As we passed through the tenement district in..... we could see the kids running for blocks in all directions just to yell to us or to wave a flag. You can imagine the enormous size of the boat—it has eight holds and each hold carries about as much as the average American freight train—eight freight train loads on one boat. It required forty-eight hours to unload the cargo. We remained on the boat three days. At the port is a sea wall that was begun 50 years B. C. and finished by Julius Caesar. There was also an old castle near by built by Alexander the Great.

The first camp in France that we stopped at was extremely valuable and interesting from a historical standpoint. It was built several centuries ago and was the headquarters of both Napoleon and Joan of Arc. We slept one night on the floor of a loft built in 1601, about one hundred yards from Napoleon's private mansion.

Don Barager and I went to Paris yesterday and it was certainly interesting both from an educational and pleasure-seeking standpoint. We ran into C. Pomeroy of Burbank, who has been here about a year. He took us around the town sightseeing all day. Saw Napoleon's tomb, a statue of Joan of Arc, the famous Eiffel Tower and Ferris Wheel, the Louvre, etc. Saw the place where a long range shell had landed and a spot where a bomb had hit a few feet from the Bank of France.

One night I went on pass with Harold McElroy and Al Wheelon through several towns in the surrounding country. The villages are all similar— narrow, crooked streets and no front yards. Most of the houses not only shelter the family but also their horses, cows and dogs. The richer class own quite beautiful houses with pretty good gardens around them and a wall enclosing all. Have visited an old French cemetery, the prettiest one I ever saw. Most of the floral designs are of beads, and the graves were made to look elaborate. In some cases a single grave would be covered by a glass hothouse. Everything seems quaint and peculiar—scarcely any windows in the houses and only women, children and old men to be seen on the streets. The little children tag along at our heels begging for food, pennies or cigarettes. Most of them still wear wooden shoes, though many of them have none at all. On one of our hikes we passd several old men working. They passed several old men working. They consisting of a scrap of bread and a little water. About every other place is a beer garden with a saloon in between some of them. The boys (most all) learn to smoke and drink when but four or five years old. The children are the prettiest bunch of kids I ever saw. All have bright red cheeks, but when about twelve years old they seem to lose most of this rosiness. The people are always overcourteous to American soldiers, but they lose all of this tendency when we buy anything from them. They are of the opinion that every American's father runs a money ranch. They accordingly proceed to boost up the prices. What do you think of peaches selling for $1.00 per can and dried apricots at 80c per pound? You can't blame them very much for we are paid many times the amount a French soldier gets.

One could spend a month in Paris sightseeing. There are a bunch of French beauties with their blue eyes, dark hair and rosy complexions, but give me the American girl every time (be she ever so humble). It was like a voice from the gods when we went to the American Soldiers and Sailors Club and heard a real United States lady's voice.

The people over here certainly think a lot of the American soldier. One particular instance happened yesterday when Don and I started to get on a street car. The conductor made all the passengers, women and all, wait until we stepped aboard the car. Not even after we protested against getting on ahead of the women would he let them on.

We are located at a camp not a great distance from Paris, ideal in every way. Are in hearing distance of the battle line. In fact, there have been air raids over us and they surely do make some noise. Yes, I heard of the death of Lester Meyer. It is too bad, but we all have to die some time. Had a letter from Hill. He had found out the name of our transport, when we arrived, our present location and all about us. He says he is going to try to be transferred to our battalion. It will surely please me.

Hoping that everybody is well and that I will hear from you soon, I am

Your loving son,
HOWARD.
